Chefs take it outside for food, wine festival

Animal lovers, foodies and shopaholics turned out to eat, drink and spend, and all to benefit homeless critters.

The inaugural Palm Beach Food & Wine Festival took place on Nov. 7 at 150 Worth and attracted more than 400 people to the Mediterranean-style courtyard.

The event included samplings prepared by chefs from restaurants including Café Boulud, Trevini, Echo, The Mar-a-Lago Club, Café Delamar, Amici and Solu.

"I love getting out from behind the stove," said Café Boulud's Zach Bell. "So much the
